Space & Naval Warfare Systems Command Awards Contract

SAN DIEGO — Northrop Grumman Defense Missions Systems, Inc., Reston, Va., is being awarded a $47,961,474 cost plus award fee contract for continued development, integration, maintenance, and support of the Global Command and Control System-Maritime (GCCS-M). GCCS-M is a single, integrated, scaleable Command Control, Computer, and Intelligence (C3I) system that receives, displays, correlates, fuses and maintains geo-locational track information on friendly, hostile, and neutral land, sea and air forces and integrates it with available intelligence and environmental information. Work will be performed in San Diego, Calif. (45%), West Conshohocken, Pa. (35%), McLean, Va. (15%), and Newport News, Va. (5%) and is expected to be completed by 31 January 2007. This contract will be incrementally funded with Operations & Maintenance Navy; Research, Development, Test and Engineering; Other Customer; Other Procurement Navy; Ship Construction Navy; and Foreign Military Sales funds throughout the contract's period of performance. Foreign governments involved are Australia, Canada, Italy, Japan, Korea, Netherlands, and New Zealand. Level of Effort: Less than 2% of contract value. This contract was not competitively procured; one proposal was solicited and one offer received via the SPAWAR E-Commerce web site. The Space and Naval Warfare Systems Command, San Diego, Calif., is the contracting activity (N00039-05-C-0013).
